Convention Breaks All Records

A record-breaking 843 delegates assembled at 1:30 p.m., on December 28, 1960, in the Crystal Room of the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, for the Sixteenth National Convention of Alpha Phi Omega.

The delegates, representing 156 chapters of the Fraternity, took part in what was probably the most productive meeting in Alpha Phi Omega history. Under the able leadership of National President William S. Roth, who was unanimously elected to a second term, the convention progressed rapidly through an outstanding program.

Convention Keynoter

George F. Cahill, National Executive Board member, described Alpha Phi Omega as a "vital, thriving, important organization, which must move forward." Only those present could act to solve its problems, he reminded the delegates. "How strong we shall grow only you can determine." He warned against confusing publicity with quality program, ignoring the Faculty Advisor, and forgetting that "Service is our most important field. There's no price tag on Service. Alpha Phi Omega can't be bought or sold."

The speaker paid tribute to the National President and to the work of National Executive Secretary Joseph J. Scanlon, an active Alpha Phi Omega man for more than thirty years. He referred also to the fine work of Past National Secretary Sidney B. North, now a member of the staff of Rotary International, a pioneer in building Alpha Phi Omega.

Outstanding Speakers

United States Senator-Elect J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware, an honorary Brother of Zeta Sigma chapter at the University of Delaware, gave words of greeting and spoke warmly of his belief in the program of Alpha Phi Omega.

An address in commemoration of the Thirty-fifth Anniversary of Alpha Phi Omega was given by Past National President M. R. Disborough. Founder Frank R. Horton told how he came to start Alpha Phi Omega and how, in the early days, he was joined in his efforts by others, including Brother Herbert G. Horton, who also was present at the convention.

The report by National President Roth, of Fraternity progress since the last convention, proved to be a highlight

The address at the convention luncheon, given by Dr. Glen T. Nygreen, Dean of Students at Kent State University, Ohio, on "A College Dean Looks at Alpha Phi Omega," and the closing address, "The Next Sixty-five Years," presented by Dr. Delmer H. Wilson, of the National Executive Board, were challenging and inspiring.

National Officers Report

The written report of National Treasurer A. G. Spizzirri of Kansas City was presented by Past National President M. R. Disborough. The financial statement for the fiscal year December 1, 1959-November 30, 1960, and the Treasurer's recommendation, previously submitted and adopted by the National Executive Board in session prior to the convention opening, were received and accepted. "We are in the black. All bills are currently paid to date. Our net bank balance as we begin the present fiscal year on December 1, 1960, totals $1,334.20, whereas the net total December 1, 1959, was $154.70." Mr. Spizzirri was unable to be present because of a special called meeting of Cumerford, Inc. representatives.

The report of National Third Vice President Manfred O. Aws, Jr., of Columbus, Ohio, concerned alumni affairs and called attention to the increasing interest in this field and to services alumni are rendering communities, Scouting and Alpha Phi Omega. The convention was reminded of the important legislation facing it to create a National Alumni Association.

National Second Vice President Dr. Henry S. Miller of New York emphasized the importance of Faculty Advisors and Scouting Advisors, as revealed in a national survey made by a committee under his direction. The Service ideal must be strengthened, too, he reported.

The report of National First Vice President Dr. Robert G. Gordon of Washington, D. C., was presented by Dr. Lester R. Steig of Palo Alto, National Extension Chairman. Dr. Gordon sent his greetings and regrets that a conflicting Red Cross engagement prevented his attendance.

President Roth requested Dr. Steig to include the Extension Committee's report at this time. During the past two years fourteen new chapters have been chartered and more than thirty campuses are now considering establishing chapters. He reported the petition for the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons at Los Angeles had been received and approved by the National Extension Committee and National Executive Board. The Convention applauded and signified its approval.

"Training for Service"

Unusually well attended were the twenty-four sessions in the "Training for Service" part of the convention program. Ranging in subject matter from "The Executive Committee" to "Making Rituals Impressive," the sessions were led by an outstanding group of Fraternity leaders from every part of the country.

Legislative Session Runs to Early Hours

The legislative session remained convened until 5:30 a.m., on December 30, in order that every proposed constitutional amendment might be acted upon. The amendments are discussed at length in another article in this issue of TORCH AND TREFOIL.

Probably the most important amendments had to do with the establishment of the new National Alumni Association.

Torch and Trefoil Special Issues

An unusual feature of this convention was the compilation and distribution of four convention issues of TORCH AND TREFOIL. The issues contained announcements of importance, short biographies of various convention personalities, and other timely information.

Planners Deserve Credit

A well-deserved vote of thanks is due the members of the convention committees. The Program Committee, led by Brother Robert J. Hilliard, of our National Executive Board, deserves special credit.

The Physical Arrangements Committee, headed by Brother E. Ross Forman, also of our National Executive Board, and the various host chapters, led by Coordinator Thomas D. Hannon, helped the convention operate smoothly and effectively.

Kansas City in '62

"Everything's up-to-date in Kansas City" and it will remain so for the 17th National Convention of Alpha Phi Omega, which will be held there between Christmas and the end of 1962. If the spirit of the future hosts is any indication of things to come, it already looks like a great convention.

In every respect the 16th National Convention was an outstanding success and should contribute immeasurably to the future growth of the Fraternity. Every Brother involved in the planning and execution of the program merits a vote of thanks.

WHAT A CONVENTION!

Herbert G. Horton, Rochester, New York, Alpha Phi Omega's first Scouting Advisor:

Well, we have retreated from the Valley Forge area, and what a convention it turned out to be! The largest number of $A\Phi\Omega$ men ever to attend a convention showed up in Ben Franklin's city, and the way those Philadelphia Area chapters put things over was something to remember. Orchids to all you men who did such a good job, and to everyone who had anything to do with the over-all arrangements.

From the long lineup of registrations on the mezzanine that, at times reached all the way down the big curving staircase to the big ballroom that held the splendid banquet, $\Lambda\Phi\Omega$ was on the move. The mezzanine exhibits showed the wide spread of $A\Phi\Omega$ nationally, and the various conventionboosting novelties striving for the '62 meeting were also very worthwhile; from Georgia to Minnesota, and from Chicago to Boston. (One hopeful group was trying to figure out where the '84 convention could go!)"

Challenging Thoughts and Excerpts From

POLITICS

Honorable J. Caleb Boggs, Governor of Delaware, 1960, and United States Senator, 1961:

"At no other time in the history of this great nation has there been so vital a need for our fellow citizens—especially the young men and women who are completing their college education—to dedicate themselves to the principles of leadership, friendship and service. For in those three words lie the future of this nation and perhaps the future of the world.

There was a widespread feeling many years ago-and it still exists to some extent today—that politics is a nasty business in which no honorable person should become involved. Rather than look upon politics for what it actually is—the science of government -many saw it as an unethical and unsavory manipulation of government at various levels. The result of this widespread feeling was that many of the fine men and women who would have otherwise been willing to fight and work for good, clean government were discouraged from taking part, leaving the way clear for those who were more concerned with their own personal

"In recent years, we have witnessed a dramatic change in the American system of politics, especially at the state and local levels. We find more professional people taking an active part in politics, either as candidates or as workers in the party of their choice. Business is encouraging its employees, sometimes through well-planned courses in practical politics, to take more of an interest in government. And the women, who gained the right to vote a relatively short time ago, are now a potent and invaluable force in politics. They make up the backbone of the volunteer workers without which no political party can survive.

"It is important to the future of this nation that we maintain and strengthen our system of government and the levels of ethics and dedicated service which we have attained because our political system is on trial before the peoples of the world. The power struggle between the forces of communism and the Free World will eventually be decided by the relative weaknesses and strengths of these two systems."

HONORABLE J. CALEB BOGGS

Challenge Ahead

M. R. Disborough, Past National President of $A\Phi\Omega$:

"Thirty-five years of Alpha Phi Omega has brought us to a turning point in the history of our fraternity. In the next five years there will be a million more men available for our membership than in the past. Figuring conservatively more than half of these have been in Scouting. We have one of the greatest challenges yet ahead of us."

Chapter Advisors

Gordon Pederson, Delta Pi, Trinity University, San Antonio, Texas:

'Success or failure of a chapter of $A\Phi\Omega$ on any college or university campus depends to a great extent upon the energies and upon the talents the advisors dedicate to the Fraternity. We, as undergraduates, are on the college campus no more than four years. In the life of any organization four years is an extremely short period of time. Because of the advisors insight, cultivated by years of experience, their enlarged outlook on life, and their knowledge of previous problems, failures, and successes the chapter has encountered on the campus, the advisors are a vital asset to the fraternity.

"The advisor has many roles to perform. His counsel is sought in the clarification of the principles and scope of $A\Phi\Omega$. He should be able to recognize the strength and accept the weakness of the different members in the organization. A successful advisor participates in the Fraternity by advising, suggesting, informing, encouraging, and assisting rather than by leading, directing, and steering. The advisor must not take responsibility from the president of the chapter, but must encourage and stimulate creative productivity of the chapter officers and members. One would expect him to be vocal at executive committee meetings, but in chapter meetings, generally he should confine his statements to subjects on which his guidance is sought."

Chapter Presidency

David Couch, President, Alpha Rho, The University of Texas:

"Chapter presidency of Alpha Phi Omega offers an unparalleled opportunity in three areas as defined and expressed in the three cardinal principles of this Fraternity. On my campus at The University of Texas, the President of $A\Phi\Omega$ is known as Mr. $A\Phi\Omega$ to faculty and students alike. Thus, a great opportunity arises to either improve the Fraternity, keep it as it is, or decrease its value.

"There is no better leadership training ground than the Executive Council of an $A\Phi\Omega$ chapter. The President of a chapter of Alpha Phi Omega develops a relationship with the chapter officers very similar to the relationship that exists in a large corporation between the President of the company and the officers below him. Thus, you see what I mean by a training ground—there could be no better than the Executive Committee or Executive Council of an $A\Phi\Omega$ chapter.

Have you ever asked yourself the question: Is there really a God and if so what evidence is there of His existence? Brothers, the best evidence I can give you of God at work is the relationships that exist among a group of friends. I have never seen friendship and fellowship, and thus, the love of God, at work stronger than in the bonds that are formed within Alpha Phi Omega. Brothers, this is what I call religion in life-getting to know and love your fellow man and giving unselfishly of your time and energy for a worthy cause such as might come about from working on many of the projects of this Fraternity. Fellowship, in my chapter, does not come about from parties, coffees, dances and the like. It is, rather than all of these things, the relationship that comes about from working on projects with a group of $A\Phi\Omega$ men. The President of $A\Phi\Omega$, probably has the greatest opportunity to help his fellow man and to witness the relationships that come out of Alpha Phi Omega."

Honorable Paul B. Hartenstein, representing the Honorable Richardson Dilworth, Mayor of Philadelphia:

"We are grateful that you have chosen Philadelphia as the site of this convention. But I must remind you that gratitude has been defined as a lively sense of favors yet to come. We ask you to favor us with another visit here, either individually or collectively, at an early date. We have much to offer. You have much to gain.

"On behalf of Mayor Dilworth and all the City Fathers, a gracious and cordial welcome. May your deliberations be fruitful and constructive."

Advisors

Hawley Dieringer, Scout Executive and Scouting Advisor, Warren, Ohio:

"Alpha Phi Omega provides for me an opportunity to extend my philosophy of life. I consider it an honor and privilege to work with young men and particularly young men who are service minded today and the community leaders tomorrow.

"America needs good leaders motivated by service. It needs community leaders today and tomorrow. I have high regards for the top scholastic student of the Colleges and Universities, but I am fully aware that the people who make my community and my country tick are not the solely intellects.

"Several years ago I had the good fortune of being interviewed by the J. J. Newberry five-and-ten cent Company as a possible manager of one of their stores. I well remember the first statement of that interview. 'If you do not see in this company and position an opportunity to better merchandise materials and serve the public than in any other walk of life, I would suggest you give it no further consideration.' This taught me that all business must be based on the principles of Scouting and Alpha Phi Omega."

SERVICE

DR. DELMER H. WILSON

Dr. Delmer H. Wilson, National Executive Board, Director Division of Personnel, National Council, Boy Scouts of America:

"This year Alpha Phi Omega celebrates its 35th birthday—35 years of leadership, friendship and service. And all from the beginning of one chapter in 1925 at Lafayette College. And today we have chapters on over 300 campuses across the country. A great record of progress and growth.

"As good as the record is . . . you will agree that it is in the past . . . nothing that we can do now will change it. While we can't change it . . . there is something that we can do . . we can use the past 35 years as a springboard for the next 65 years.

Our greatest asset is our desire to be of service. I want to talk to you a little bit about service. I shall not dwell on platitudes, but wish to paint service as I see it in its true complexion today.

"Service is the irreducible essential to survival . . . to survival of the individual, the partnership, the corporation, organization . . . and particularly so to an organization such as ours . . . Alpha Phi Omega.

"As we look into history, service has its foundation in religion. The Judo-Christian philosophies teach service. Service flourishes only in a free society such as we have in the United States. The only type of service you find in a dictatorship is what I would call slavery to the state.

"Our political philosophy makes each man free to provide for himself . . . work where he will . . . change jobs when he will . . . the right to own property and save for his own future and be able to help others.

"When one is successful, in our philosophy, this not only enables him . . . but it obligates him to care for others.

"We are truly our brothers' keepers. If we choose not to live by a mandate such as Russia, then we must live by service to survive.

"I pray that we will return with a missionary spirit and that we will have greater faith in our future. That we will all be faithful to our calling . . . as members of Alpha Phi Omega.

"When we go back we should broaden our appreciation of our educational system, our institutions. We should be proud of our educators not only in words, but in actions. Foster honor and respect for education.

"When we go back, let's enhance the personal integrity of our brand of leadership—the non-self-seeking type of service.

"I am sure our leaders do not think 'What this will do for me,' . . . or 'What it would do for our organization' . . . but 'What we can do for others.'

"We must cultivate the maximum talents in those who can serve best. Let's seek out our personnel and give more responsibilities which will help them grow in leadership and yet give them jobs to do where they can really make a contribution.

"We must provoke the 'uncommon' man attitude, nurture it and cultivate it. Herbert Hoover once said: 'We have talked too much about the common man and what we should do for the common man in America . . . the men who have made America great are the uncommon men.' Would you consider George Washington a common man? Edison—Lincoln—Henry Ford common men? It is the uncommon man who is not afraid to strike out and be different who sometimes does great things.

"Don't wait until you are an old man to be great. Be a great young man while you are in college!
