SPRING 1980

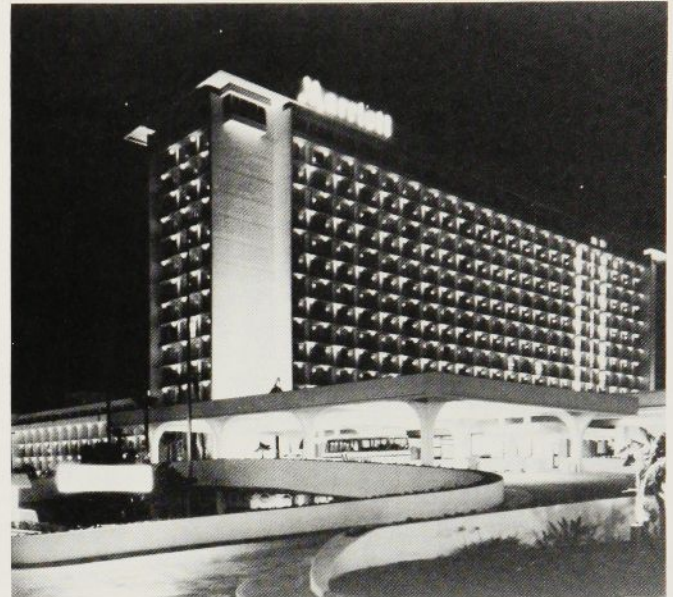

CUNLA

In just eight months, members from across the nation will gather for Alpha Phi Omega's 1980 National Convention at the Marriott Hotel in Los Angeles, California. Interest in the meeting is running high and the host chapters are hard at work planning an outstanding Alpha Phi Omega experience for you.

The 1,020 room Los Angeles Marriott is one of the finest hotels in Southern California. It is located on Century Boulevard less than four miles from the Los Angeles International Airport. Free shuttle bus service is provided from the airport to the hotel.

The hotel offers three restaurants and three lounges, as well as a pool and patio area which features a hydrobath with pulsating jets of heated water. On the lower level are located in the main meeting rooms, which include 40,000 square feet of space that can accommodate from 20 to 2,000 people. Other rooms throughout the hotel bring the total number of meeting rooms to 150, more than enough to accommodate Alpha Phi Omega. The hotel is one of the finest facilities ever scheduled for an Alpha Phi Omega National Convention.

On February 10, representatives from four chapters in California met at the Marriott to begin planning for the Convention. Represented were: Alpha Delta, San Diego State University, Gamma Gamma, University of California-Berkeley, Sigma Tau, Chapman College, and Chi Delta, Pepperdine University. The meeting was chaired by Larry

The Los Angeles Marriott Hotel at night.

Pang, Convention Chairman, of Gamma Gamma. Joining the undergraduates were Earle Herbert, Convention Coordinator, Warren Stookey, Convention Consultant, Convention Advisors Jeromye Avery, Irwin Gerst, and Sid Smith and National Executive Director Roger A. Sherwood. This group will be meeting monthly during the Spring and Fall to develop plans for the Convention.

The supreme authority of Alpha Phi Omega is vested in the National Convention, and every chapter should be represented to express its views on the business to come before the Convention. Many chapters have established Convention Funds to insure their participation. If you haven't already done so, plan now to set up a fund to assist your delegates. In addition, save some money from your summer job to be sure you can join us. It's a super opportunity to meet members from other chapters and to see just what our Fraternity is all about.

EDITORIAL

As the end of another school year draws near, we find our Fraternity poised on the dawn of a new decade . . . A time of opportunity and challenge . . . A time of building and sharing . . . A time of potential for Alpha Phi Omega.

The 1970's were a time of trial for Alpha Phi Omega. The beginning of that decade found our nation wracked by internal dissent, by a "do your own thing" mentality, by a decline in membership in Alpha Phi Omega, and by a reduction in National Staff. The days ahead indeed looked dark.

The Fraternity, however, possesses an amazing resiliency. We consolidated our losses, retrenched, and forged ahead. We have survived ever-increasing inflation. We experienced a surge in volunteer commitment. Our alumni have provided much-needed financial support. We have opened our ranks to female students, thereby doubling the population from which chapters can recruit new members. We have initiated and conducted programs to provide leadership development, to create an awareness of service through National Service Day, to bring inactive chapters back into the fold, and to offer chapters a variety of aids for more effective administration of their chapter programs. We have survived a severe membership decline, and have begun to grow.

How will we respond to the 1980's? Forecasters project that the college population will decline. That means that, if we are to continue to grow, we must develop even more effective recruitment techniques. We must construct our service programs to provide needed services while at the same time attracting additional members to carry on those programs. We are, as we have proven in the 1970's, equal to those challenges. It's simply a matter of being cognizant of those conditions and gearing up on every campus to realize our potential. Let's get at it!

CORRECTION

In the Winter/Spring 1980 issue of Torch and Trefoil we inadvertently failed to include DELTA CHAPTER, AUBURN UNIVERSITY as having reported its participation in "Service Day '79: A Celebration of Service". Delta reported that it expanded the concept and developed a full week of service under the banner of Alpha Phi Omega. We apologize to Delta Chapter and congratulate the members for their outstanding effort.

A MESSAGE FROM THE NATIONAL PRESIDENT

The past year has been a good one for Alpha Phi Omega. Much has been accomplished in the name of our Fraternity.

Service Day '79, the Reach Out Program, the outstanding service programs of many chapters, and the opportunity for more students on more campuses to participate in Alpha Phi Omega all denote progress in the extension of our principles of Leadership, Friendship and Service. I commend the undergraduate members, the dedicated alumni, the Sectional Chairmen and their staffs, the Board, and all volunteers working in behalf of Alpha Phi Omega. I salute all of you for your dedicated efforts.

In December members of Alpha Phi Omega will gather in Los Angeles, California for the 1980 National Convention. This is the premier event in our Fraternity. I look forward to personally meeting as many members as possible at the Convention. I trust each of you will do everything you can to be with us.

The National Convention provides the opportunity for you to share in the shaping of your Fraternity for the future. It allows you to participate in the selection of Alpha Phi Omega's leaders for the next two years. Best of all, it is a unique experience in fraternalism. You'll have the chance to talk with other chapters to see how they conduct their programs, and how they exemplify our principles on their campuses. The thrill of singing the Toast Song in a fellowship circle with 1,000 of your fellow members is indescribable. You have to be there to appreciate the feeling of Brotherhood that prevails.

With the current rate of inflation and the distance for most chapters, Los Angeles is going to be more expensive than recent Conventions. However, there is no reason we cannot work together to insure our participation. Chapters have a particularly good opportunity to conduct fund raising events to help their delegates. Airline reservations made this Spring can insure against price increases between now and December. Begin your financial planning now, and you'll be sure of your participation. I hope to see you in December!

1978-79 H. ROE BARTLE CHAPTER AWARDS

Forty-nine chapters qualified in 1978-79 for the H. Roe Bartle Chapter Award. This Award was established in 1975 to recognize those chapters which achieve and maintain high standards in all aspects of their operations.

The 1978-79 H. Roe Bartle Chapter Award Form was mailed to all chapters in November of 1979. It was combined with the Annual Program Review. Each chapter was asked to evaluate its program and operations in Leadership, Friendship and Service for 1978-79, and to establish goals for 1979-80. Based upon its evaluation, each chapter determined whether it qualified for the H. Roe Bartle Chapter Award.

Most chapters responding felt that the review was a valuable exercise in assessing chapter strengths and weaknesses, and in developing goals to improve chapter operations in the future. We salute those chapters earning the award for 1978-79 and wish them every success in the future. • THETA NU — HAMLINE UNIVERSITY

In response to a call for help, THETA NU CHAPTER, HAMLINE UNIVERSITY (MINNESOTA) organized a campus blood drive to provide blood for an individual at the University of Minnesota Hospital. Gordon Holler, a student at Bradley University in Illinois, underwent a bone marrow transplant operation in a fight against aplastic anemia. His parents, who are members of a United Methodist Church in Illinois, learned that Hamline University is a United Methodist-affiliated University, and appealed to the university for assistance in obtaining blood. Theta Nu immediately took on the project, and coordinated a blood drive program to assist Gordon. Transplant patients with aplastic anemia have an 80 percent chance of survival, so the prospects for Gordon are good. You can contact Theta Nu at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minnesota 55104.

Theta Nu President Dave Todd donates blood in the blood drive for Gordon Holler.

• GAMMA GAMMA — UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA-BERKELEY

An annual project of GAMMA GAMMA CHAPTER, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA-BERKELEY, is the Miles-For-Meals Walk-A-Thon. The chapter takes complete charge of the project, which involves planning the route, recruiting the walkers, posting the route, manning the checkpoints, staffing first aid stations, and providing refreshments for the walkers. It's a major project of the chapter, and this year 300 walkers raised $12,800 for the program. The chapter heightened its visibility this year by wearing Alpha Phi Omega T-shirts. You can contact Gamma Gamma at the University of California-Berkeley, 300 Eshelman Hall, Berkeley, California 94720.

• PI DELTA — WESTERN CAROLINA UNIVERSITY

Two bloodmobiles sponsored by PI DELTA CHAPTER, WESTERN CAROLINA UNIVERSITY, have raised nearly 700 pints of blood for the Jackson County Red Cross Chapter and the Regional Blood Center in Asheville, North Carolina. The chapter reports that 100 of the donors were giving the "gift of life" for the first time ever. Well done, Pi Delta! You can contact the chapter at Western Carolina University, Box 465, Cullowhee, North Carolina 28723.

• BETA SIGMA — TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY

In the Fall of 1976, BETA SIGMA CHAPTER, TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY created the Red Tape Cutting Center, an information center to help students at Tech find answers. Starting with a desk and a phone in the lobby of the University Center, the Red Tape concept grew in scope and is now a vital organization on campus. Red Tape is sponsored, manned and funded by students to serve students. The manpower is strictly volunteer and comes from Beta Sigma and the Women's Service Organization. It is funded by allocations from the Student Association.

Besides helping students answer questions, Red Tape also operates the University Activities Calendar, a ride board, a campus-wide Lost and Found Service and Project Scope, a collection of all available information about campus organizations, opportunities and services. This information aids the volunteer in finding answers to questions quickly.

The Red Tape Cutting Center is open from 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. Monday through Friday. Workshops are provided to familiarize new workers with the proper procedures. For more information contact Beta Sigma at P.O. Box 4333, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas 79406.

• ALPHA TAU — BUTLER UNIVERSITY

It is also the mascot of SIU-Carbondale. A major part of Zeta Nu's service to the campus is to walk the Saluki mascot at home sports events. The Salukis also make other appearances on campus and around Carbondale to represent the University. Zeta Nu cares for the University's four Salukis. The chapter reports that the members have derived much enjoyment from this project. You can contact Zeta Nu at P.O. Box 535, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.
