1984 NATIONAL CONVENTION

Hal Hagemeyer, Convention Coordinator

Washington, D.C.! Our Nation's Capital! This year it is not only the seat of our nation's government, but also the site of our National Convention, the supreme governing authority of our Fraternity. That's right — Brothers and pledges of Alpha Phi Omega and their spouses and friends will gather at the Hyatt Regency on Capitol Hill on December 28-30, 1984, to consider the state of the Fraternity and establish its direction for the next two years.

"How will this be done?" you are, no doubt, dying to ask. Much of it will be done by reference committees which recommend the legislation and resolutions that are considered in general business sessions by the voting delegates (two from each chapter plus various straphangers such as the National Board of Directors). But there will also be Regional meetings, caucuses, leadership workshops, and topical seminars on a host of interesting and useful subjects.

"Sounds terribly dull," I can hear the nescient among you say. Well, you are wrong, late-night-party-goer breath! There will be banquets, dances, parties, entertainment, souvenirs ... and that's just the official stuff. Outside the hotel, there are a googol of things to do and see. Our convention room rates ($39 single and $40 double, triple or quad) are good from December 20th through January 2nd, so come early and stay late to see Washington!

"Well, what is there to do in Washington?" my sycophant asks. I'm glad you'd like to know! Start with tours of the Capitol, the White House, the Supreme Court, the Library of Congress, the Washington Monument, and the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials. Next are the Smithsonian Museums — Air and Space (touch a piece of the moon!), American History, Natural History, The National Gallery of Art, and many more. There are many other art galleries, or you can take in a symphony, opera, or play at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, or any of several other excellent theaters. Are you hungry yet? You've come to the right place! French, Greek, Cuban, Indian, Afghani, Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Vietnamese, Ethiopian, Middle Eastern — you name it. Oh yes, we do have McDonalds, and the Hotel will run a full sized fast food operation in the lobby for breakfast, lunch, and dinner during the convention.

If you still can't imagine what you can do to have fun, talk to someone who has been to a National Convention before. Chances are, they will tell you about the super opportunities to meet fellow Brothers and pledges from all over the country and about the chances to learn of other chapters and how they practice leadership, friendship, and service. Try it, you'll like it!

There is a dedicated, enthusiastic group of chapters working hard to make this the best convention ever. Don't you miss D.C. this December. It'll be a Capital Convention in a Capital City for our Capital Fraternity! ♣

A Christmas Gift

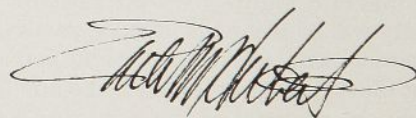

Now is not too soon to start planning how you can give yourself (and your chapter) a memorable holiday gift this December, one in limited supply and of truly lasting worth. I'm referring, of course, to your involvement in the upcoming National Convention in Washington, D.C. "Limited" because the opportunity, typically, is given to you only once while you're an active; "worthwhile" because of the positive long-term effect it can have on you as an individual, a Brother, and as a member of your chapter.

No matter what your status within the Fraternity, it is not an overstatement to say that you can benefit immeasurably by going to a National Convention. As a pledge, you can learn more about the true meaning of Alpha Phi Omega in these three days than you can in the most rigorous pledge program. As an active, you will never have a greater opportunity to broaden your personal horizons and/or to improve your effectiveness as a Brother than you will have by attending the workshops and committee meetings offered at a National Convention. As an officer, you have an unsurpassed opportunity to improve your efficiency by comparing notes with your counterparts from other chapters from across the nation, or by attending workshops designed just for you. As an alumnus or alumna, National Conventions are excellent times to renew old friendships and to see just how things have changed (or remained the same) since you were an active.

No matter what you're looking for at a National Convention, I guarantee that you'll find it ... and in super abundance! Leadership? Where else will you find all of the officers of Alpha Phi Omega assembled in one place and eager to talk with you? And the quality of the Leadership Development Workshops offered here is unsurpassed. Friendship? You haven't experienced the "heart's warmth of friendship" fully until you've walked into a (very) crowded hotel lobby, knowing that you know no one there, but suddenly realizing that it doesn't matter, for in fact you're at home, surrounded by friends you haven't met yet. And I won't even mention the parties! Service? What greater service to the Fraternity — that too-often forgotten field of service, expected of us all — what greater service can there be than to help to determine the direction in which the Fraternity will be traveling over the next two years, and to participate in the election of the officers who will be leading us?

Help to assure that you, your chapter, and Alpha Phi Omega are as good as they can be. Be selfish, give this gift to yourself and to all of us. Plan NOW to be a part of what promises to be the best National Convention ever. Make sure that your chapter is represented in Washington, D.C., in December, 1984. For a Brother of Alpha Phi Omega, there may truly be no greater gift. ☿

Board of Director Actions

The Board of Directors held its winter meeting February 11th and 12th in Washington, D.C. They took the following actions:

- Elected Harry Suszko as Region 9 Representative and Chuck Bowen as Region 4 Representative. Each Brother will serve until an election by the active brothers can take place at the 1984 Convention.
- Approved an eight-point educational plan to strengthen Fraternal unity.
- Approved a revised Membership Policy statement which has a positive tone and is educational in nature.
- Agreed to support efforts to emphasize academic achievement by the membership.
- Reaffirmed that the Board's position is to acquire the Fraternity's own building at the earliest opportunity. A committee will be set up to investigate the feasibility of a capital campaign. Another committee will deal with the specifics of the building.
- Approved a procedure for nominating and electing Trustees for the Endowment Fund.
- Approved petitions for charter for Mary Hardin — Baylor University, Widener University, University of Arkansas at Monticello, and Miami-Dade Community College.
- Placed Psi Omicron chapter on suspension.
- Set aside funds to continue microfilming the national membership records.
- Established a policy restricting the employment of relatives of the Board and exempt employees.
- Adjusted the salary schedule for Fraternity employees and approved a procedure for employee evaluation.
- Eliminated the current cost sharing arrangement between elected Board Members.
- Agreed to provide Sectional Chairmen with stationery.
- Approved a line in the forthcoming budget establishing a discretionary fund for the President and Vice President.

Alumni Start "High Touch" Program

A perennial challenge facing any large organization is insuring stability in the wake of financial uncertainty — and it is no different for us in Alpha Phi Omega. Over two-thirds of our annual budget is generated by membership fees — but what about the other third?

Last year, alumni members initiated a "high touch" program to help fill that gap. Alumni from all over the nation held phonathons, calling their old friends and Brothers from their own chapters. Brothers visiting with Brothers — sharing a rich past and an even richer future together in Alpha Phi Omega — citing mutual goals in the strengthening of the Fraternity.

Phonathons held in Denver, Dallas and Kansas City raised close to $1,000 in only three evenings. Under the leadership of the Development Campaign Committee chaired by Roger Sherwood, the three phonathons were coordinated by John Wetherington, Abe Frishman and Clark Israel. A not-to-be-overlooked sidelight to this event was that correct addresses were obtained on many "lost" Brothers.

Perhaps you were one of the callers or one of the called who rose to the occasion of supporting the Fraternity. If not, and you'd like to renew some old ties and help your Fraternity at the same time, contact Darrell Spoon at the National Office about holding a phonathon in your area. ☞

*Remember the Friendships you made in Alpha Phi Omega.
Remember the Fraternity in your final affairs.*

NU SIGMA STEPHEN F. AUSTIN STATE UNIVERSITY

Pictured are the Brothers and Little Sisters of Nu Sigma Chapter, Nacogdoches, TX, with the trophy recently presented to them at the school's 60th anniversary Homecoming. They were awarded the trophy for the most active participation in Homecoming activities by an independent organization.

To earn this award, the Chapter built the Homecoming bonfire, presented the Alpha Phi Omega spirit trophy and painted Homecoming theme windows. In their spare time, they have managed to build parade floats that have gained the Chapter a few first place ribbons in the past.

Besides Homecoming, the Chapter distributes a free school calendar to dorm residents and is working with the University in planning an on-campus shuttle service. PI IOTA WOFFORD COLLEGE

Higher visibility on campus is one of the goals for Pi Iota Chapter. In years past, members rang the bell in Old Main at class change. They have continued the tradition this year. They have also offered to participate as counselors in the Alcohol Awareness Program, and will work with the Admissions Office during the Wofford Scholars Program, the Spring Hospitality Weekend, and Fall Freshman Orientation. Off campus, Pi Iota plans to work with the Boys Home of Spartanburg, the March of Dimes, the Heart Fund, and area Scout troops. They will also be helping the elderly living in Converse Heights. MU ALPHA GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Mu Alpha, Washington, D.C., was cited by the Georgetown University News for its outstanding record of service. "At Georgetown, Alpha Phi Omega is a great tradition, and an assembly, past and present, of the Campus Leaders, and the most outstanding students." The Brothers "led the way to social activism long before it was popular to do so."

The Chapter has had an "interestingly diverse" program of service over the years, ranging from rerouting the airplanes flying into National Airport from above the 1956 Commencement ceremony to functioning as ushers and attendants through Edmund Walsh's lying-in-state. Today, the Chapter runs a boy scout troop for mentally handicapped boys, works with the Georgetown Children's Home, and organizes regular Sunday morning soup luncheons for the District's street people. On campus, they provide a vital escort service for women living off-campus, organize Emergency Blood Donors, and have a Dance Marathon and UMOG contest. Congratulations to Mu Alpha for the rave reviews by the University press. Contact them at Georgetown University, Box 2275, Hoya Station, Washington, DC 20057. ✂

EPSILON DELTA CENTRAL CONNECTICUT STATE UNIVERSITY

On December 23, the brothers from the Epsilon Delta Chapter donned swimsuits and other summer regalia and sang Christmas carols to win a Cabbage Patch Kid Doll. Sounds easy enough, right? Wrong! Although the sun was shining, the mercury was hanging down around the 8 degree mark. Dwight Elliot (the Doll) was auctioned off the next day on a local radio station for $225.00. A lucky child got a coveted Cabbage Patch Kid and the Salvation Army Fund got $225.00. However, the story doesn't end here. During the auction, the DJ on the radio station told Chapter President, Bernie Leavy, "because Alpha Phi Omega's doing this isn't a one time deal — because you guys are always doing something for somebody else — we thought this would be a nice idea for somebody else to do something nice for the Brothers of Alpha Phi Omega."

Then he handed Bernie an Adam Home Computer by Coleco. Who says there is no such thing as Santa Claus! Pictured are (kneeling) Pete Perkins, Jane Johnson, (standing) Frank Vesci, Paul Lombardo, Bernie Leavy, Mark Gamble and Judy Steel. Dwight Elliot is the one in the box. MU XI HIGH POINT COLLEGE

On February 1st, 1984, the Brothers and pledges of Mu Xi Chapter at High Point College participated in a unique service project. They helped move over 130,000 books in one twelve-hour day from the old college library to a brand new facility. The Brothers of Mu Xi performed many different tasks during the move. They packed the books into boxes for other members of the student body to take to the new facility. They put the books onto the shelves once the boxes arrived in the new library. The Brothers worked in other capacities as babysitters for faculty children, photographers, and support personnel to the school administration. The Brothers also assisted the library staff in preparing for the move and in cleaning out the old library after the move. Mu Xi, which spent about 350 man-hours on this project, was also assisted by Brothers from Winston-Salem State and members of the Section 79 staff. Contact the Chapter at Box 3027, High Point, NC 27262. ✂

ZETA STANFORD UNIVERSITY

In May of 1983, Zeta Chapter of Stanford, CA, celebrated its 55th anniversary. As a special treat, they invited a distinguished branch of their family tree, alumnus W. Walter Menninger, keynote speaker at the 1982 National Convention, to meet with the pledge class named in his honor. Now Zeta can add another leaf to its family tree. Dr. Menninger's daughter, Marian, just joined the chapter during the fall of 1983. Since she and her father are now Brothers, this puts her in the unique situation of being her own uncle. ETA CHI HARDIN SIMMONS UNIVERSITY

Eta Chi Chapter, Abilene, TX, held its first "Ugly Man on Campus" contest February 22-25, 1984, and can chalk up a resounding success. The Chapter feels that the contest brought the name of Alpha Phi Omega to the attention of alumni, faculty and students in a very positive way. The Chapter nominated six faculty or staff members who took part in the contest, including Dr. Jesse Fletcher, President of the University, honorary member of the Chapter and eagle scout. The Vice President of Student Affairs won the contest by a landslide. For more information contact: Eta Chi Chapter, Box 715, H-SU Station, Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, TX 79698. ☞

NU LAMBDA MORAVIAN COLLEGE

Nu Lambda, Moravian College, Bethlehem, PA, is pleased to announce a very special anniversary, one which no other chapter has experienced. Since the early days when Moravian College was a seminary for women, the college has sponsored candlelight Christmas Vesper services. Nu Lambda, with the aid of local service sorority Sigma Tau Sigma, pours the more than 6,000 candles needed for the services each year. Working from six in the morning to six at night, the pouring and wrapping of the candles take two months. This year is Nu Lambda's tenth year of providing the labor to produce these candles.

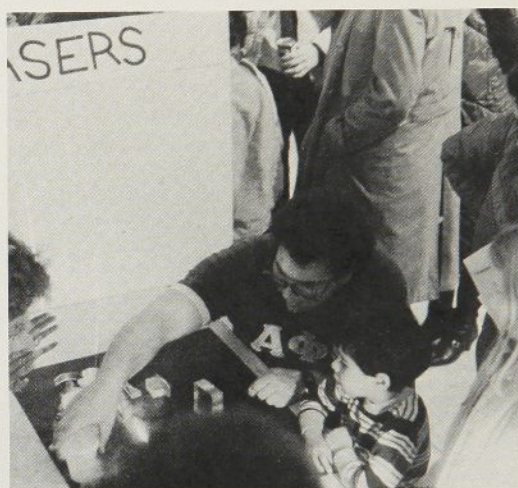

The Chapter's commitment to the Vespers doesn't end there. For the past few years, a Brother of Nu Lambda has been Head Sacristan, the behind-the-scenes leader for the Vespers.

Although the Chapter enjoys participating in many other service projects throughout the year, the candle pouring remains their proudest tradition. It is truly a labor of love. For information write to: Nu Lambda Chapter #323, Moravian College, Box 10, Bethlehem, PA 18018. ☞

Jones Pledge Class (fall 1978) of the Iota Phi Chapter (UC Davis) would like to congratulate all of their pledge brothers nationwide on the fifth anniversary of our initiation into Alpha Phi Omega. EPSILON ZETA RENSSELAER POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE

On December 27, 1983, over 150 Brothers and pledges from across the Northeast gathered in Albany, New York for the Region I and II joint conference hosted by Epsilon Zeta chapter, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and Section 88.

But this was no ordinary conference. It featured the Capital District Educational Fair, a see-and-do experience for children of the Albany area. The project was developed in cooperation with the Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls and Big Brother/Big Sister Programs, and over 750 children participated. The fair was divided into four areas: Science and Technology, Earth and Nature, Body and Health, and The World Around You. Included were exhibits on computers, television, lasers, robots, electricity, small animals, finger-printing and first aid. The idea for having a service project was developed in 1981 by Epsilon Zeta. And this project, the Capital District Educational Fair, certainly is worthy of the chapter's long history of service. Brothers from Cornell University, Clarkson College of Technology, and SUNY at Oneonta, also helped with developing and manning exhibits for the fair.
