WINTER 1982

THANK YOU ... Sectional Chairmen

Somehow that doesn't seem enough to say to those members currently serving as Alpha Phi Omega Sectional Chairmen. These individuals and their staffs are major factors in the strength of our program. They stimulate and motivate chapters; they solve problems; they demonstrate that we are indeed a National Fraternity; and they help us to keep our purpose before us.

They deserve a special appreciation from all of us. We'd like to recognize and say thanks in behalf of the entire Fraternity to the following Sectional Chairmen:

A TIME OF ACCOMPLISHMENT

During the past two years, I have had the privilege of serving as the National President of Alpha Phi Omega. It is an experience that I wish that more of our brothers could have. My own horizons of leadership, friendship, and service have been expanded and I am proud to have had the opportunity to serve in this honored capacity.

The pride that I feel is enhanced by the progress that our fraternity has made during the past two years. It has been said that there is no limit to what people can accomplish if they don't care who gets the credit, and the credit for our accomplishments during the past two years belongs to all of us who have shared the Alpha Phi Omega experience during this time. Some of our specific noteworthy accomplishments have been:

1. The membership of the fraternity continued to grow, reaching its highest level in the past decade. More membership translates to more opportunities for leadership and friendship and to more service.
2. The leaders of the fraternity have adopted a set of long term goals to guide the operation and direction of the fraternity in the years ahead.
3. The fraternity has made progress toward establishing itself on many of the major campuses across the nation on which a truly national fraternity should be represented.
4. The operation of the fraternity has been conducted in a fiscally sound, business-like manner. Revenues have exceeded expenses for the combination of the past two fiscal years.
5. The National Board of Directors acted swiftly but prudently in appointing Darrell Spoon as our fourth National Executive Director following the resignation of Roger Sherwood in 1981.
6. The Future Task Force, a group consisting of elected student representatives from each of our ten regions, contributed student input to the leadership and management of the fraternity — a process which our national conventions have indicated would be desirable for several years.
7. The fraternity acquired its first computer and the necessary support equipment as a result of generous contributions by alumni members and friends of the fraternity.
8. The size of the Alpha Phi Omega Endowment Fund increased significantly as a result of life membership sales, gifts, and a substantial bequest by Brother Frank McMullan.
9. New furnishings and equipment were acquired for the national office in a continuing effort to improve its appearance and operation.
10. An effort was made to involve as many people as possible in the leadership of the fraternity at all levels and to encourage a spirit of innovation.

Working together has enabled us to accomplish these and many other things during the past two years. Just think what we can accomplish in the future!

C. P. Zlatkovich
National President

YEAR 'ROUND OPPORTUNITY TO PARTICIPATE IN LOW-COST GROUP INSURANCE PLANS

With rising medical, hospital, and cost-of-living expenses, many of us could stand to increase our insurance protection. But the cost of the insurance alone forces some to take the risk of going without needed protection.

The Alpha Phi Omega-sponsored group insurance plans can be a solution. These plans are offered as a service to members to provide quality insurance protection ... at low-cost prices. These low premiums are possible due to our group buying power and the savings gained by standardized administration.

The Alpha Phi Omega Group Term Life Insurance Plan offers you and/or your spouse an excellent opportunity to purchase up to $100,000 of term life insurance. Coverage is available in $10,000 units allowing you to choose the amount you need: $10,000 ... $20,000 ... $30,000 ... up to $100,000. A special low rate will also insure all your dependent children.

Other important features of the plan include a waiver of premium in case of disability, conversion rights, and a guaranteed renewability provision.

The Alpha Phi Omega Group In-Hospital Insurance Program is another sponsored plan you might want to consider. This plan provides supplemental coverage to help meet today's rising medical and hospital costs. You and your spouse have a choice of three plans offering $150, $100, or $50 per day in cash benefits for each day hospitalized for a covered injury or sickness. Benefits are paid directly to you with no restrictions on how the money is spent and will be paid regardless of any other insurance benefits you may receive. Special features include double benefits for intensive care and cancer treatment and an optional surgical expense benefit. Best of all, you are guaranteed acceptance into this program.

Both of these plans are underwritten by Durham Life Insurance Company, a well-respected leader in the insurance field. For more information on either plan, simply fill out and mail the coupon below to the APO Insurance Administrator, Albert H. Wohlers & Co.

Starts SeniorVersity Program

By Rick Long

The Brothers of Sigma Theta chapter have once again initiated another exciting, original, and innovative service project. This one could surpass in popularity our Operation Redball which won the National Service Award in 1974.

SeniorVersity is a program designed to bring the expertise of both a college and a corporation to the senior citizens within a learning environment. The program is unique both in its decision to go to the senior citizen to reach him and its decision to utilize the considerable talents of future teachers, "parascholars" who would bring intelligence, enthusiasm, and the freshness of vision to the classroom.

SeniorVersity differs from other existing programs in support of the education of senior citizens in its simplicity and economy. The program is undertaken at absolutely no cost to the senior citizens and involves no travel to a campus site. All of the instruction is presented at community Senior Citizens Centers or other similar locations where senior citizens frequently meet.

Last March SeniorVersity presented an educational program on computers, entitled "Computers and You." The program was co-sponsored by Control Data Corporation. They graciously agreed to provide SeniorVersity with the use of PLATO terminals, computer consultants and lecturers, and access to their educational computer libraries. This lecture series was designed to expose the senior citizens to the new advances and the upcoming important role of computers within a learning environment.

SeniorVersity, now in its second year of existence, is growing very rapidly. To aid with the complications of this rapid growth, Sigma Theta has set up a SeniorVersity Board of Governors and a SeniorVersity Task Force. The Board of Governors currently includes three college professors, a Vice President of a multi-national corporation, two senior citizen advocates, two United States Senators, one United States Congressman, and four members of Alpha Phi Omega. The Board provides insight and knowledge from the college, the community and the nation.

If you are interested in hearing more about SeniorVersity write:

J. FRANK McMULLAN 1932-1982

J. Frank McMullan died February 8, 1982, making it a sad day for Alpha Phi Omega. Frank had served as a symbol of what this fraternity stands for. Without hesitation, Frank served his fellowman, and always thought of them before thinking about himself, and the physical limitations placed on him while serving his country. Frank is the only person to have received all of the Distinguished Service Awards of the fraternity. In his humanitarian generosity, Frank remembered the fraternity in his will.

REPORT OF THE NATIONAL FINANCE CHAIRMAN

Michael Suhr

Alpha Phi Omega experienced successful financial results for the 1981-82 fiscal year ending August 31, 1982. Total revenues exceeded our $185,800.00 budget by $12,125.00 or 6.5%. This, coupled with actual expenses under those budgeted by $1,863.00, provided our fraternity with $13,988.00 excess of revenues over expenses.

I am very encouraged with the audit and accompanying financial statements by Coopers and Lybrand, a certified public accounting firm retained by Alpha Phi Omega. We are very proud of our chapter brothers, and of their commitment to continued growth of the fraternity. Initiation fees, pledge fees, and annual active membership dues exceeded that budgeted by $6,054.00, which constitutes approximately 50% of the $12,125.00. Furthermore, it is a pleasure to commend our national leaders, executive director and staff for their good judgement and decisions in keeping total expenses under the budgeted amounts.

It is very desirable to report favorable financial results for the previous year. However, we are mindful of not living in the past, therefore we must continue to strive to develop and implement plans for successful years of financial growth. Our past reflects a very heavy reliance on our chapters and their membership fees to accomplish this financial growth. Yet our fraternity's leaders are mindful of the need to diversify and expand upon its sources of revenue. You should note that membership fees and dues contributed $137,554.00 or 69.5% of the total revenue received for operating our beloved fraternity in the 1981/82 fiscal year.

I request each of you to consider the following items in your planning process for the continued success of Alpha Phi Omega. Item 1. Our Alumni have continued to provide financial support to our operating fund during our most difficult times. We must provide a program that will enable them to contribute funds for a designated purpose or program. Item 2. We recognize our National Office operation is a significant aspect of our operating costs therefore, we must continually evaluate these resources and operation methods so that we can reach the state-of-the-art whenever possible. Item 3. Since we still place heavy reliance on membership fees, we must aggressively continue promoting the growth of the fraternity.

I'm grateful that Alpha Phi Omega has received financial good health this past fiscal year and recognize Brother John Hanke for his expertise as custodian of the financial affairs for our fraternity since 1978. I am hopeful that we might expand our headquarters service center to provide additional services to our university and college campuses through office automation and improved resources. Yet, in accomplishing these goals, we cannot disregard our fiscal responsibility for the continued success of Alpha Phi Omega.

Advisors: A Natural Resource

Don't Let the Well Go Dry

By Randall Cupp
Epsilon Chapter

Congratulations! Your chapter has just recruited a new advisor with unlimited potential and enthusiasm. The chapter president is happy because the slate of four advisors is full. Then the inevitable happens ... the advisor asks, "What do I do now?" Do not panic. Continue reading this article, the second in a series of articles by student members of the Future Task Force.

The first step in utilizing the skills and resources of an advisor lies within the chapter itself. At some point, the chapter should decide what kind of advisor they want and need. The possibilities are unlimited; however, there are a few types of advisors that readily come to mind. Let's look at the "advisor family."

An advisor can be nothing more than a name on a roster. This advisor is called a "Paper Doll." Do not expect anything from the "Paper Doll" advisor, other than the annual signature. The reasons for this type of advisor are many: no communication with the chapter, no desire to be an advisor, no effort on behalf of the chapter to involve the advisor, etc. Overall, this advisor is for the chapter that wants to go nowhere fast. This chapter is like a salmon swimming upstream; sometimes they make it okay, most of the time they die. Don't let your chapter get caught in this stream.

At the other end of the spectrum is the "Master." This advisor controls all activities of the chapter. The "Master" can be expected to declare what service projects your chapter will do for the campus, what your budget will be for the upcoming year, and who your pledges will be this semester. The chapter with this advisor is nothing more than a collection of slaves. Thankfully, this type of advisor is very rare.

The "Celebrity" is the advisor who will make special guest appearances at banquets, formal receptions, and an occasional special rush function. This advisor will always add an air of distinction to an event and impress potential pledges, provided the "Celebrity" is respected on campus. The chapter can receive advice from this advisor, usually after he has been informed of current chapter activities.

Related to the "Celebrity" advisor is the "Ritual Voice." You will never quite know what this advisor looks like since the only time he is seen is during a candlelight ceremony. This advisor will venture into well-lit banquet rooms, if invited. Once again, your chapter may receive some tips from this advisor, provided you fill in the person on current events.

Finally, there is the "Perfect" advisor. This is the person who attends special functions of the chapter, as well as regular meetings. This is the advisor who makes sound suggestions, yet does not expect your obedience. The "Perfect" advisor will also attend a few service projects to keep in touch with the activities of the chapter. This person is able to leap piles of red tape in a single bound, and will. This advisor is proud of the connection with Alpha Phi Omega and displays an important plaque or certificate in the office.

LAMBDA NU DUKE UNIVERSITY

Brothers at Lambda Nu chapter literally raised the roof on a weekend project, enabling Camp Easter, an Easter Seals facility in Southern Pines, North Carolina to pass inspection and open on schedule. The brothers at Duke currently sponsor "Pals" and "Grandparents," tutor underprivileged youth in Durham, and run a book co-op service on campus. In leading a campus-wide effort, Lambda Nu raised enough money to provide the new Bryan University Center at Duke with a baby-grand piano available for impromptu use and enjoyment by all. Other current projects include home winterization in Durham, raising funds for the Durham Poison Control Center, reconstructing the campus Vita Parcours health fitness trail, and providing the Durham Red Cross with ten blood donors each week.

For more information contact the brothers at Duke: P.O. Box 9471 Duke Station, Durham, NC 27706.

INSTALLATION

Alpha Phi Omega returned to the campus of Millikin University on November 7, 1982 when Eta Epsilon chapter was installed. Berkley Duncan, Region Six Representative, officiated at the ceremony and the brothers of Delta Epsilon, Eastern Illinois University, performed the initiation ritual. Also present for the occasion were volunteer Don Wauthier, Region Six Extension Representative and Greg Svoboda, Sectional Chairman for Illinois. Congratulations may be sent to Debbie Refine, President, Eta Epsilon, Decatur, Illinois 62522.

A BROTHER

*A brother is somewhere in this land,
Reaching, wanting another's hand.
He's oh, so brave and friendly too,
Does good for both old friends and new.
He stands up tall for all that's right,
And conquers wrong, all through the night.
He stands there, somewhere, in this land,
And reaches out to touch someone's hand.
Stand tall my brother, and don't you sweat,
You'll surely make it, and this I bet.
You're so determined and caring too,
You'll surely succeed in all you do.
So raise your voice when you speak your piece,
Turmoil and trouble will someday cease,
And all the people in this great land,
Will witness the service of an A-Phi-O man.*

RHO THETA CAPITAL UNIVERSITY

For many years now, Rho Theta has organized blood drives, signed up donors, and provided assistants four times annually. The group has added a rivalry this year with nearby Otterbein College. This semi-annual competition involves a large traveling trophy won in the first contest by Rho Theta. The chapter exceeded its goal of 100 units by 68%. Mark Heuter, Service Chairman, reports the chapter is already planning for the next blood drive and is greatly encouraged by their success. For details, write to Rho Theta, Capital University, Box 110, Columbus, OH 43209.

"The Perfect Advisor Makes Sound Suggestions, Yet Does Not Expect Your Obedience"

Unfortunately, the "Perfect" advisor is rapidly becoming extinct. That need not be the case, however, as it has been so aptly demonstrated by Naturalists with other rare birds. A chapter has to decide what type of advisor it would like to have; with that decision well in hand, move to step two. Communicate. Communicate. Communicate.

At the beginning of the year outline with the advisor what your plans are for the upcoming year and how he fits into this grand scheme. Do you want the advisor to attend your rituals, banquets, and rush functions? If so, tell him now, not two days before the activity. Invite him to regular meetings. Then ask for his suggestions and ideas. Everyone likes to feel needed.

Then during the year, communicate some more. Hold advisory board meetings regularly. Invite the advisor to service projects as they develop. Remind him of special activities. Discuss the current events of the chapter. Invite him to attend sectional conferences, regional and national conventions.

Finally, communicate some more. This time on a more personal level. It may be a simple wave in the hall, or a chapter member stopping by the office, just to say hello. It could be recognition in the form of a T-shirt or recognition as the outstanding advisor of the year.

Now that you have your new advisor involved in Alpha Phi Omega, look at your other advisors. A frequent problem is the "Stagnant" advisor. This is the person who "has been our advisor for as long as I can remember." If the advisor is perfect for your chapter, no problem. If not, then talk it over with the advisor. Make a special effort to excite him about his role with your chapter. If this doesn't work, find out what is wrong. It could be that he is just tired of advising, and wants out, but "just can't let you fine kids down."

"Communication Is the Key"

Maybe you have one of the other types of advisors, like the "Master," or the "Celebrity." Try to talk with him also, to work out your problems together. Usually this solves the problem, if done honestly and tactfully. If it doesn't work, after much effort, it may be time to change advisors. This experience can be less traumatic than it sounds. Once each year, the chapter should review the activities of each advisor. The president should also review these activities with the advisor. If everything is not up to par, and attempts have been made to resolve the problem, or the advisor is ready to quit, then it is time for a change. The advisor position is not a lifetime appointment, contrary to popular belief. To ease the pain of separation, it is appropriate to award a Chapter Certificate of Recognition to this person, or promote them to the status of "Honorary Advisor."

All of these problems can be avoided if the chapter knows what it expects from an advisor and the advisor knows what he or she expects and is willing to give to the chapter. Communication is the key. Show every advisor that they are an important part of the fraternity, excite them about your activities, and they will aid your chapter in becoming the finest group on your campus.
